Patients often use the Internet to search for health-related issues. Search the Internet for any health-related issue of your choosing. Evaluate the website by answering the following questions:

1. Do the authors have qualifications listed? What are their qualifications? What is the domain? (.gov, .edu, .org) Yes. Family physician, gastroenterologist, gynecologist, pulmonologist, internist, pediatrician, audiologist, neurologist, psychiatrist, general surgeon, preventative medicine, emergency medicine. The domain is .org.
2. When was the site created? When was the site last updated or revised? December 13,2022. It doesn't state whether this is the revised date or the creation date. I would assume this is the most up to date version.
3. Who is the targeted audience? Does the web site present facts or opinions? Patients with mental health issues. It provided a lot of facts and even stated that it can differ from patient to patient and that not all patient's will experience the same signs and symptoms and to reach out to their provider for more information.
4. How complete and accurate is the content information? Does it agree with other expert sources? It is decently complete and provided very accurate information. It did agree with many of the other expert sources as well. After checking different sources this one seemed to be the most accurate as well as correlated with expert findings the most.
5. Does the site load quickly? Is it a secured site? Are there graphics, or pictures on the page that serve a purpose? If so what are they and how do they relate to the health issue? The site loaded very quickly for me. It was a secured site. There was not any graphics or tables used. There was no pictures used on the site also. I chose to research mental health so I feel as though it was harder to put images up however there was also no tables presented on the site either. But it did provide further resources for more information on mental health.
