Patients often use the Internet to search for health-related issues. Search the Internet for any health-related issue of your choosing. Evaluate the website by answering the following questions:

1. Do the authors have qualifications listed? What are their qualifications? What is the domain? (.gov, .edu, .org) No their qualifications weren't listed and neither was the author. It was written by someone at Tulane University Department of Public Health and Tropical Medicine. The domain is .edu. The exact website is this <https://publichealth.tulane.edu/blog/mental-health-public-health/>.
2. When was the site created? When was the site last updated or revised? The site was created on January 13th, 2021 for this particular post. It was not updated since then.
3. Who is the targeted audience? Does the web site present facts or opinions? The targeted audience is the general public with healthcare background. The blog post is discussing Mental Health as an issue in the public eye. It offers facts based on other sources such as the CDC and SAMHSA. It discusses different components such as mental health in regards to working, relationships, and professionals within mental health.
4. How complete and accurate is the content information? Does it agree with other expert sources? The information comes from sources such as SAMHSA and CDC. Coming from other credible sources such as these contributes to the credibility. I would say the information is accurate and is broken down into a way that the general public understands. Especially if someone is just now learning about mental health and how it can effect their everyday life.
5. Does the site load quickly? Is it a secured site? Are there graphics, or pictures on the page that serve a purpose? If so what are they and how do they relate to the health issue?

The site loads quickly via google chrome. It only took a few seconds to load fully. There are no graphs or pictures in this post. However there are some statistics that serve their purpose to make the point the author is trying to make. Mental health involves different aspects of a persons life and this is how it does so. The blog post then goes in to discuss the role of healthcare providers in this issue.
