1. Do the authors have qualifications listed? What are their qualifications? What is the domain? (.gov, .edu, .org)
 - a. Yes, the author of the article is Kristen Bowe, APRN, C.N.P., M.S.N. The website's domain is .org.
2. When was the site created? When was the site last updated or revised?
 - a. The site was created in August of 2023 and has not been updated since.
3. Who is the targeted audience? Does the web site present facts or opinions?
 - a. The targeted audience for this article is for parents of college students who believe their child may be experiencing some sort of mental health crisis while in school. The website seems to present mostly facts. They include a lot of statistics and percentages as well.
4. How complete and accurate is the content information? Does it agree with other expert sources? (Provide expert sources you researched.)
 - a. The information is complete and accurate and compares to many other sites. Some other similar sources I found are American Psychological Association where they talk about different approaches college campuses are taking to lessen the number of psychiatric issues. Also, the National Institute of health did a study on college students and treatment considerations to lessen mental health concerns in the college student population.
5. Does the site load quickly? Is it a secured site? Are there graphics, or pictures on the page that serve a purpose? If so, what are they and how do they relate to the health issue?
 - a. The site did load quickly for me and is a secured site. There are a couple graphics on the page. One graphic is a young kid going to school and the others are other articles that relate to this one like how to support a depressed loved one.
