Patients often use the Internet to search for health-related issues. Search the Internet for any health-related issue of your choosing. Evaluate the website by answering the following questions:

1. Do the authors have qualifications listed? What are their qualifications? What is the domain? (.gov, .edu, .org)

I search “ medication that can be used for PCOS ?” out of the first 10 websites, only 3 were .com. Three journal articles showed up and they all had authors and their qualification. Mayo clinic and Cleveland clinic did not have authors or their qualifications listed.

2. When was the site created? When was the site last updated or revised?

I’m basing this off of the Mayo clinic. The site was created in 2022 and had not been updated.

3. Who is the targeted audience? Does the web site present facts or opinions?

The targeted audience are young women. It didn’t give medication to control PCOS. It talked about medication to help it pregnant, regulate periods and education on lifestyle changes. It was facts

4. How complete and accurate is the content information? Does it agree with other expert sources? (Provide expert sources you researched.)

The content information was very educational. It talked about how to get tested for PCOS, what to expect that the appointment. It talked about signs of PCOS and that it is a hormonal imbalance of not only the reproductive system but the whole body

5. Does the site load quickly? Is it a secured site? Are there graphics, or pictures on the page that serve a purpose? If so what are they and how do they relate to the health issue?

The site did load quickly. It asked me if I work allow cookies. It was only 2 pictures but they showed the tools the doctor would use during an exam/ pap smear.
