Assignment:

To Kellie Deeter of Norwalk, OH,

I am writing to you today in regard to an ongoing issue in the nursing field that I feel we could make progress with through legislation. As many know, staffing is a huge problem in the nursing world and hospitals across the country are struggling to stay fully staffed. This could be for many reasons, and I believe that burnout is one of the major reasons for the staff shortages aside from needing more nurses in general. I am writing in hopes of having some form of legislation presented to the Senate about maximum patient ratios. At some hospitals here in Ohio, the patient ratio can go all the way up to 8 on a medical-surgical floor. I feel that is very unsafe for the patients, is a major factor in causing burnout to many nurses today, and if we have legislation in place preventing an overwhelming patient ratio I believe that not only will many staffing problems be fixed, it will be much safer for the patients. I am hoping that you can understand where I am coming from and will help all the nurses in the state and I with practicing safe with our licenses and bringing the patients to a safer environment. Thank you for your time.
