Homework Assignment Questions and Answers

Please read the chapter and answer the following questions:

1. Malpractice and negligence are examples of what kind of law?

Malpractice and negligence are examples of civil law, and more specifically a tort. A tort may be intentional or unintentional. Examples of unintentional torts are malpractice and negligence actions.

2. What charges may be brought against a nurse for confining a client against his or her wishes (outside of an emergency situation)?

If a nurse is confining a client against his or her wishes outside of an emergency situation, they would be charged with false imprisonment. This is defined as the deliberate and unauthorized confinement of a person within fixed limits by the use of threat or force.

3. Which ethical theory espouses that what is right and good is what is best for the individual making the decision? Which quality and safety in nursing education competency may be, at least in part, consistent with ethical egoism?

The ethical theory that espouses that what is right, and goods is what is best for the individual making the decision is ethical egoism. Providing patient-centered care is an important health professions education competency identified in the IOM report. As the reading states, the competency promotes listening to and respecting the patient's values, preferences, and expresses needs in care management decisions.

4. Name the three major elements of informed consent.

The three major elements of informed consent are knowledge, competency, and free will.
