

When I think about where I was on the continuum I fall into the “Supportive” style of teaching and facilitating small group. I think that the children learned a lot when I worked side by side with them, but they also benefited from working independently.