

I feel that I fall somewhere between supportive partnership and directive because in some areas I am very supportive, joining and supporting what they are doing but I also sometimes fall into directive where I set out and control activities although I always encourage their own style.

I plan to have activities that are less controlled in all areas.