

Continued..

Moving forward I will make a conscious effort to concentrate on using more shared control, giving the children more time and more choices and encouraging them instead of praising. I will also try to ensure that my plans are less directive and give ample opportunities to children to manipulate material. After week 1 I realised that the best way to maximise learning and growth is to allow and gently help children move ahead at their own pace.