Weekly Clinical Journal

Journal of Observations:

During clinical this week, I was able to watch many skills. The nurse I was following was amiable and showed me many useful skills. Although I did not perform many skills during this rotation, I watched a birth, which was incredible. I feel very confident that I want to start a nursing career in Labor and Delivery, and I look forward to the opportunities this rotation offers.

What Leadership and Management skills were observed?

The charge nurse during my shift was extremely proactive. Although she had many tasks to complete on her own, she still managed to help her fellow nurses when they needed assistance. I believe that she was great at delegating tasks and ensuring the unit was ran smoothly.
