

Use the attached article for this next section

Evaluation of the new nurse's readiness for practice

1.5 hr

o Review the article about new nurse's readiness to practice. Using the information from the article do the following:

o Assess your personal readiness to practice nursing

I believe that I am ready to enter nursing practice in some way and not ready in others. I am very excited to jump into the real world and learn everything that I can about the field of maternity nursing. I do not believe that I am ready to work during a pandemic. COVID19 is still very unpredictable as cases are fluctuating daily. I want to ensure that I am equipped to provide the best care possible.

o List strengths and weakness

My strengths include time management, willingness to learn, communication skills, empathy, adaptability and a smile. My weaknesses are lacking confidence to perform certain skills as I have not had the chance to practice much. I also want to increase my knowledge in medications.

o Establish a plan for enhancing your practice

Learning does not stop after graduation and passing NCLEX. I plan to continue to dedicate my time to learning as much as possible. Learning on the job and also outside of work. Reading evidence-based articles and books and nursing journals. I will take full advantage of being a novice nurse with a preceptor and ask questions.

PLACE a Screenshot of the completed case and your written responses to the above discussion questions in the corresponding Dropbox