1. Briefly write about today's experience(s) Today I had a patient who was A&O x1. Patient knew his name and birthday but did not recognize where he was or the year. I learned how to give medication through G-Tube. After passing the medications. I went off with the nurse who was explaining things to me before going off to the next patient.
2. What is one thing you learned? Knowing what medications can be crushed up. Pantoprazole could not be a crushed medication, so we had to order the liquid form and pour it in the cup mixed with other medication.
3. What is one thing you would do differently?
I want to say nothing because whatever opportunity I had to perform something I did.
4. What is your major "take home" from today's clinical experience(s)? Double check medications and make sure that you are using the correct form and dosage.

5. Is there anything else you would like to mention? No
