Level of motivation for learning: The patient’s wife was very motivated to learn. The wife is very involved in her husband’s hospice care. Barriers to effective learning: Overall the wife was very receptive to the learning however, one barrier was that she relies on herself rather than asking for help. This may make it challenging for the wife when taking care of her husband at home. It also may make it challenging for the wife to grieve her husband when he dies. Health beliefs/values: Health beliefs are what people believe about their health. This will constitute what people think of their health. There are four major health belief systems, perceived susceptibility, perceived severity, perceived benefits, and perceived barriers. An example of someone health	Nursing Diagnosis: At risk for ineffective coping as evidence by stating that “I have not yet processed what is happening” Goal of Teaching: The goal of teaching was to help the patient’s wife understand what to expect when her husband went home from hospice care. For example, the wife was taught what symptoms the patient may experience during the end-of-life care as well as what kind of help she can expect from the hospice nurses.	Intervention 1: Establish an environment of mutual trust and respect. Intervention 2: Teach patient relaxation techniques of deep breathing and guided imagery Intervention 3: Request feedback from the patient about behaviors that seem to work	Method 1: One form of teaching method that could be used is discussion. Method 2: Another form of teaching method that could be used is visual materials.	Discuss how the client/family received the teaching: Overall, the wife received the teaching very well. She asked some questions and was overall engaged in the conversation. The wife however did state that she thought she may not need all the resources provided to her and that she processes things on her own. Identify strengths/weaknesses of the client or family in receiving teaching: One strength of the patient’s wife was that she was very receptive and engaged in the teaching. One weakness of the teaching was that that the patient’s wife did not seem prepared for what care her husband would need. Suggest modifications to improve teaching plan (what would have improved the plan?): Something that I would beliefs is a person who does not think that they will get the flu, is less likely to get the flu shot yearly.

Psychosocial development:

Psychosocial development is how a person's individual needs mesh with the needs or demands of society. It helps to allow us to empathize the social nature of human beings and the important influence that social relationship can have on development.

Cognitive development:

Cognitive development is the growth of a person's ability to think and reason. There are four stages of cognitive information development, those stages are, reasoning, intelligence, language, and memory. Cognitive skills allow for people to understand the relationship between ideas, to grasp the process of cause and effect and they improve their analytical skills.

have changed to improve the teaching plan is include materials that had information on about what we had talked about. This would have been beneficial to ensure that the patient's wife remembered what we talked about.
