

Noticing	Interpreting	Responding	Reflecting
Why did you choose this additional assessment? What did you notice during your additional assessment of the client? Were there any assessments that were abnormal or that stood out to you? I notice this because I helped admit this pt and I could see the guilt in his face so I wanted to check in with him and hear his thoughts. I notice he felt bad, but that he was happy to stop drinking because it was affecting him and other people around him.	If something stood out to you or it was abnormal, explain its potential cause or patterns that you noticed. Describe any similar situations you have experienced / as well as the similarities or differences between the experiences. Is your interpretation of the situation links to pathophysiology at all, if so - briefly explain. What stood out was his guilt he felt for his actions. You can see his sadness in his face after speaking about him hitting police officers. I couldn't find any similarities.	What additional assessment information do you need based upon your interpretation? What can you do as a nursing student? What did you do? What could you do as a nurse? I would need to know more about why he feels like getting aggressive while drunk is the thing he chooses. What is a trigger while being drunk that sets him off. I can listen & have sure to pay attention to detail. As a nurse, I can find coping outlets for him to follow so he can not feel guilty about something that can be avoided.	What is something that you learned? What is something that you might do differently in the future? What is something that you did well? What additional knowledge or skills do you need to help you with future situations like this. Describe any changes in your values or feelings based on this interaction. I learned that no matter what people look like on the outside, people are good at covering up how they really feel inside. I made him laugh and help keep his spirits up. Finding more ways to be there for a patient when going through uncomfortable situations.
