1. Briefly write about today's experience(s)

Today we took a pt down to have a MRI done because he was having loss of balance and they wanted to rule out if it was neurological or muscular. He is older so the MRI of the brain was for that reason

2. What is one thing you learned?

I learned they use Versade to relax pts a little more if they are scared to go in the MRI machine. It helps to calm a person so they won't move around.

3. What is one thing you would do differently?

I would be more hands on with the pt and do my research a little more to understand why this med is needed when going for MRI

4. What is your major "take home" from today's clinical experience(s)?

You have to monitor the pt vitals plus verify what your doing to the pt and monitor how much meds you've given them. Its just good to pay attention because you can't

5. Is there anything else you would like to mention?

There is nothing else I'd like to mention.

But I did have a good nurse to teach me.
