

N434 Evidence-Based Practice

Grammar Practice with Draft Coach

Summer 2024

Instructions: Working in groups of 2-3, students will practice using Grammar feature in Draft Coach. Students will modify the following statements to ensure correct clarity, mechanics, grammar, and punctuation is used.

NOTE: Some examples may have zero (0) errors. If that is the case, put "N/A" as the correction.

Restraints are in use when determining whether the less restrictive interventions are ineffective.
Correction:
Studies haev arisen on wheather restraints are moer beneficial than potential harm.
Correction:
Restraints can have a negative effect on patients' physical and mental health, a reduction of usage has been recommended for all healthcare settings
Correction:
According to Dong et al. (2020), women that test positive for covid-19 may be able to pass antibodies to infants through breast milk and while in gestation.
Correction:
Approximately 100 million Americans experience chronic pain daily
Correction:
More than 50% of health care visits in children were due to reported pain.
Correction:
Regarding nursing management of the disease, nurses can promote optimal nursing care for this disease by achieving airway clearance, improving breathing patterns, encouraging effective coping, and promoting self-care (Hinkle & Cheever, 2018).
Correction:

In the world hypertension is the primary cause of cardiovascular disease and early death.

Correction:

I think it is so crazy that global mean blood pressure has remained constant or reduced somewhat during the last four decades due to widespread usage of antihypertensive drugs.

Correction:

Approximately 45 percent of individuals had symptoms of GAD for at least two years before being diagnosed with the illness

Correction:

This decrease in bone density, can make a patient, more likely to fracture teh bones.

Correction:

The last step, consists of providing resources to each patient; to help them be successful through the transition

Correction:

I have found that the most frequent comorbidities associated with ADHD are learning disorders such as reading disorders and dyscalculia

Correction:

To expand upon this, according to Joaquin (2019), another factor that contributes to lower nurse-to-patient ratios is spending. Hospitals would have to hire many nurses, increasing the annual cost up to millions.

Correction:

Although lifestyle changes such as a low salt diet and more exercise are good changes when dealing with hypertension, it shows that when a patient has both hypertension and diabetes, the most common way to control it is through medication.

Correction: