Level of motivation for learning: The client verbalized motivation to learn more about her “blood issue” (anemia), and an iron-rich diet. She was very attentive to the education. Barriers to effective learning: The client had just eaten and reported no pain prior to the education. One barrier to effective learning is that the client is hard of hearing. Health beliefs/values: The client identified her health as rapidly declining despite the efforts to slow it down. She believes her health to be impacting her productivity and values her healthier days. Psychosocial development: The client is in Erickson’s psychosocial stage of Integrity v. Despair. Cognitive development: The client is in Piaget’s Formal operational stage of cognitive development.	Nursing Diagnosis: Deficient knowledge related to lack of exposure as evidenced by client stating she knew she had anemia but only knew “it was a blood thing, I can’t help it” (Phelps, 2023). Goal of Teaching: The goal of the teaching is that the client will be able to identify sources of nutrition high in iron to improve anemia and related symptoms.	Intervention 1: I inquired about what the client did know regarding anemia and an iron-rich diet to identify points to reinforce and work from. Intervention 2: I provided the client with information to read as well as verbal information and asked prompting questions regarding the material. Intervention 3: I connected the client’s signs and symptoms of anemia to the diagnosis such as fatigue, SOB, low hemoglobin, and numbness (Capriotti, 2020).	Method 1: The first teaching method I used with this client was discussion. Method 2: The second teaching method I used with this client was a handout, and teach-back.	Discuss how the client/family received the teaching: The client was receptive to the teaching and was able to verbalize foods that are high in iron such as “leafy green vegetables,” and sources of vitamin c to increase iron absorption such as “tomato and orange juice.” Identify strengths/weaknesses of the client or family in receiving teaching: One strength is that the client was motivated to learn more about her diagnosis. One weakness is the client voiced feeling discouraged by the more frequent need for transfusions and chronicity of symptoms. Suggest modifications to improve teaching plan (what would have improved the plan?): Completing the teaching with members of her support system/family present would improve teaching by having another pair of ears to ask clarifying questions and potentially reinforce the teaching later. Additionally, I could have
