Colleen was our point of contact at Cunningham Children's Home. She was very helpful for providing all of the information that we needed for this project and knew a lot of information about the organization. Colleen has a Bachelor's of Arts in Communication from the University of Illinois in Springfield. She has worked many years in non-profit organizations and has always had a passion for helping children in need. This passion stemmed from her own parents fostering children when she was young.

History of Cunningham

Judge Joseph and Mary Cunningham founded this organization in 1895

The Cunninghams kindly gave the Women of the Methodist Episcopal Church, today known as the United Women in Faith, their house and fifteen acres in 1895 to support children in need in Urbana.

Three things have been consistent throughout Cunningham Children's Home's history:

- 1) Helping in-need children and families;
- 2) United Methodist Women as keepers of the trust; and
- 3) Continuous and increasing resource demands.

Initially, Cunningham served as a haven for kids whose parents could not care for them or who had lost parental supervision. However, as children's needs changed, Cunningham modified its purpose to include caring for kids with behavioral, emotional, and special education needs. Cunningham Home started with two goals. The first was to assist dependent children, and the second was to establish a Deaconess Home inside the Methodist Episcopal Church's Illinois Conference. A deaconess home was no longer required by 1910. Providing for the needs of dependent children became the home's only goal. In 1921, a new, independent corporation was established, and the name was changed to Cunningham Children's Home, Inc. of Urbana, Illinois (Cunningham Children's Home, 2025c).

The beginning 1894–1910

The Women's Home Missionary Society (WHMS) assists dependent children by founding the Cunningham Deaconess Home and Orphanage. Orphans, half-orphans, and children whose families are unable to support them in a family environment make up the majority of the children the Home serves. The Board of Managers expands the original house to include a large dorm, a nursery, a kindergarten and schoolroom, a boys' dorm, and a hospital room (Cunningham Children's Home, 2025c).

1910–1925

The Home's name is changed to Cunningham Children's Home by the Board of Managers. It also incorporates the facility to take donations and bequests and convert them to an orphanage exclusively. 1911 Sheldon Hall was constructed as a medical isolation ward and school. The nursery, the dormitories for boys and girls, and the administrative offices were all in Sheldon Hall over the years. Illinois Hall was constructed in 1921 with a girls' dormitory on the second story, and an infirmary on the first floor after the terrible influenza outbreak in 1918 highlighted the necessity for a school infirmary (Cunningham Children's Home, 2025c).

1925–1933: The Depression Era

James White, a professor at the University of Illinois, is preparing an architectural study to create the future Home. White's plan called for constructing a new main dormitory, a hospital annex, a leisure hall, a central heating plant, and converting Sheldon Hall into a dining room and kitchen with a dormitory on the second level (Cunningham Children's Home, 2025c).

The building started in 1927 when the central heating plant was constructed. The Great Depression impacts the board structure and building plans. The Board of Managers is forced to operate as a "local board."

Cunningham Children's Home emerges from the Depression with a sufficient reserve and no debt when the construction plans are put on hold (Cunningham Children's Home, 2025c).

1933–1948

After recovering from the Great Depression, Cunningham Children's Home reexamines its architectural blueprints. Termites have caused significant structural damage to the original structure and its expansions. The 1899 addition to the old house was demolished in 1936, and Spalding Hall's development was authorized. In 1938, the original Cunningham Hall was demolished. In 1939, Rachel Ann Cottage is replaced. As Cunningham marked its 50th anniversary in 1945, the War Production Board granted special authorization to construct the administration building. Although families continue to bring children to the Home as they have in the past, more and more are being recommended by probation officers and other government representatives. As more kids with dependency decrees enter Cunningham, Illinois's child welfare procedures are continuously evolving (Cunningham Children's Home, 2025c).

1949–1960

The Board's appointment of Sarah English as superintendent marks the beginning of Cunningham Children's Home's transition from an orphanage to a residential treatment facility. Mrs. English urges the Board to appoint social workers to assist the children at Cunningham and learn more about their developmental requirements. The 1930s and 1940s saw a change in childcare techniques toward a more family-like setting, while the building program of that era focused on preserving congregate, communal living. The Cunningham campus saw the addition of four cottages between 1954 and 1970 (Cunningham Children's Home, 2025c).

1961-1976

The Board strives to transform Cunningham Children's Home into a licensed social service organization. The first communal group home for boys was founded in 1967 after the cabin at Lake Mattoon was purchased in 1966.

1969, the girls' community group home was opened when Sheldon Hall was destroyed. The Odom Recreation Center was constructed in 1975 (Cunningham Children's Home, 2025c).

(1976–1988)

A forward-thinking, adaptable Board of Directors solidifies Cunningham Children's Home as a residential treatment facility for young people who have fled violent and neglectful homes, completing the transfer. A former Home resident named Tom Powell is appointed Executive Director. As part of their ongoing commitment to the future, the United Methodist Women constructed the Gerber On-Grounds School in 1982 to accommodate the children's evolving educational demands (Cunningham Children's Home, 2025c).

1988 to 1999

Samuel Banks was named Executive Director in 1988. Now, Cunningham has developed into a well-known, expert residential treatment facility that offers professional assistance and care to children and young people who have experienced abuse and neglect. 1989 saw the construction of the Goodman Diagnostic Center; 1993 saw the demolition and reconstruction of the Lake Mattoon cabin; 1995 saw the opening of the Kendall Gill Community Boys Group Home, which replaced the previous residence on the corner of Washington and Vine; and 1996 saw the Board of Directors acquire 17.4 contiguous acres of land north of Cunningham's main campus, expanding its total area to almost 32 acres. The Board of Directors authorized the establishment and operation of a Treatment Foster Care Program in 1997 and the CIRCLE Day Treatment School in 1998, in keeping with its dedication to addressing the complex and ever-evolving needs of the young people under Cunningham's care (Cunningham Children's Home, 2025c).

From 2000 to 2007

Cunningham Children's Home started undergoing a significant makeover of our leading site and surrounding areas in 2000. Only the most damaged and severely problematic adolescents are placed in residential treatment facilities due to years of decreases in governmental financing for social services. Children must exhibit high-risk behaviors, such as persistent physical aggression, running away, issues with sexual behavior, and/or severe mental health issues that make it impossible for them to be securely cared for in a foster family or other community setting, to be accepted for residential care (Cunningham Children's Home, 2025c). In addition to offering a community space for graduations, school plays, and other Cunningham festivities, our Spiritual Life Center opened its doors in 2007 and is a spiritual and emotional healing resource. The Spiritual Life Center has multiple offices and meeting spaces, a chapel, a meditation area, and our chaplain's office. It's a stunning structure where commonplace miracles can and do occur (Cunningham Children's Home, 2025c). Cunningham is focusing on our children's educational, vocational, and therapeutic recreation requirements as we begin Phase II of our project—building a new Education and Recreation Complex—while fundraising to cover the cost of these two new facilities continues. Former Illini basketball coach Lou Henson and his wife Mary, former Illini and NBA player Kendall Gill, and his wife Wendy served as the chairs of the Coach's Campaign, a significant new project of the Lighting the Way Capital Campaign that was introduced in 2007. Coach's Campaign aims to raise $2 million for a new Special Therapies Center and $7 million for the construction of two additional schools to establish a foundation of support for the latest Education and Recreation Complex (Cunningham Children's Home, 2025c).

Cunningham opened additional transitional housing services in 2009 within an existing Urbana apartment complex in response to the evolving requirements of the young people under our care. Three young women and three young men can now get an intermediate level of supervision and support in addition to the existing Transitional Living House as they get ready to move out on their own and become completely independent (Cunningham Children's Home, 2025c).

Cunningham expanded its traditional Foster Care program in response to the Department of Children and Family Services (DCFS) May 2014 report indicating a significant need for foster care homes. In only three months, Cunningham increased the number of families and children it helped by hiring additional staff and finding more foster parents to provide more children with secure, caring homes (Cunningham Children's Home, 2025c).

With the launch of the Vocational Options Program (Options) in January 2016, Cunningham's years of experience assisting children from our therapeutic schools in their transition to adulthood were extended into the community. Options serve adults and children aged 6 to 40 who have emotional, behavioral, and mental health issues. Through instruction, assistance, and practical experiences, the Options staff assists these people in becoming self-sufficient. To provide a workplace experience, services are tailored to each person's knowledge of their abilities, accommodations, and handicaps. Cunningham receives referrals from social assistance organizations and public schools in East Central Illinois. The program is funded by grants from the Department of Rehabilitation Services (DRS) and the Workforce Innovation and Opportunities Act (WOIA) (Cunningham Children's Home, 2025c).

Cunningham saw a 40 percent increase in the number of people we assisted from July 1, 2018, and June 30, 2019, giving 731 children, adults, and families hope and healing. In July 2019, we established Runaway and Homeless Youth Services (RHY) after realizing the need to help runaway youth in our community. RHY assists those who are homeless or at risk of becoming so in Champaign County (Cunningham Children's Home, 2025c).

Street Outreach (for those aged 14 to 24) aims to provide a safe and stable living arrangement; Emergency Shelter (for those aged 14 to 21) offers secure and stable temporary housing; and Intermediate Transitional Living (for those aged 18 to 24) emphasizes the development and lifelong skills that result in sustainable housing, employment, relationships, and connections to community resources (Cunningham Children's Home, 2025c).

Cunningham had development and success in 2021 despite facing concerns due to the COVID-19 pandemic and personnel issues. The vital needs of 794 people were effectively met by their committed staff of 352 workers spread over 13 programs. In 2022, Cunningham continues offering 807 youngsters and families top-notch care despite issues like inflation and the housing crisis. United Methodist Women changed their name to United Women in Faith in March 2022 and started new initiatives to help young people, women, and children. In FY23, Cunningham cared for 846 children, adults, and families through its 11 community service programs and the Caminos program for unaccompanied teenagers (Cunningham Children's Home, 2025c).

Mission Statement

“To nourish hope through effective solutions so children thrive and families flourish.”

- Vision: To see every child thrive

Size of Cunningham

- 37 acres
- Additional CIRCLE Academy location in Rossville
- There are currently 400+ employees and they are always hiring!

Cunningham Children's Home. (2025). Services. Cunningham Children's Home. <https://cunningham.org/>

Cunningham started off with just 15 acres of land back in 1895 and today it is comprised of 37 acres. Cunningham also established an CIRCLE Academy location in Rossville, Illinois, in August 2014. Based on the methodology employed at Cunningham's CIRCLE Academy Day School, the program offers each student a customized educational and behavioral plan to meet their needs. After discussing the need to expand the range of special education programs available to their pupils with Vermilion County school officials, Cunningham decided to open the school and Cunningham now works with over 20 school districts in the area (Cunningham Children's Home, 2025c). Cunningham also employs over 400 individuals and are always hiring, including nurses!

Funding

- Grants
- DCSF
- School Districts
- Fundraising
- Donations

The Cunningham Children’s Home receives funding from a variety of different sources. They get both state and federal grants to help run their programs as well as funding from the Illinois Department of Children and Family Services (C. Combes, personal communication, March 10, 2025). School district funding also plays a large role in keeping their Circle Academy up and running as the public schools who partner with Circle Academy provide funding for the students who attend there (C. Combes, personal communication, March 10, 2025). Lastly, a great deal of Cunningham’s funding comes from fundraising and donations (C. Combes, personal communication, March 10, 2025). In 2024 alone, the Cunningham Children’s home was able to fundraise over 2 million dollars! They hold many different events throughout the year such as their Festival of Quilts, golf outings, 5k races and more to help raise money for their programs (C. Combes, personal communication, March 10, 2025). They also receive many generous donations from the community and in 2023, 2,864 community members, businesses, and organizations donated funds or supplies to Cunningham Children’s Home (Cunningham Children’s Home, 2025b).

Services Offered

Short and long-term services are provided on a case-by-case basis such as:

- Gerber program
- Circle Academy
- Camino's Kids
- Youth Shelter & Housing
- Family Counseling/Supports
- Transitional Living and Employment Support

Cunningham Children's Home. (2025). Services. Cunningham Children's Home. <https://cunningham.org>

The services can vary in what type of services as well as how long the services are offered depending on the foster homes/case of each child.

- The Gerber program provides special education services to some of the youth that are a part of the residential treatment program. It offers individualized education planning involving trauma informed strategies as well as speech and occupational therapies (Cunningham Children's Home, 2025d).
- The Circle academy branches out beyond the residential treatment program and offers special education services to students in the community who are referred by local school districts. This program is available in Urbana as well as in Rossville and serves around 123 students. It offers services such as individualized special education programming, individual and group counseling, and vocational training opportunities (Cunningham Children's Home, 2025d).
- Camino's kids program is for children who are refugees and come to the United States to receive citizenship and be placed with either a sponsor family or with family who are already living here. The program offers them assistance with citizenship as well as offering a short-term home while they go through the process (C. Combes, personal communication, March 10, 2025).

Some of the shelter and housing programs that Cunningham Children's Home offers are the Cedars Youth Shelter, independent living, transitional living, and runaway and homeless youth services.

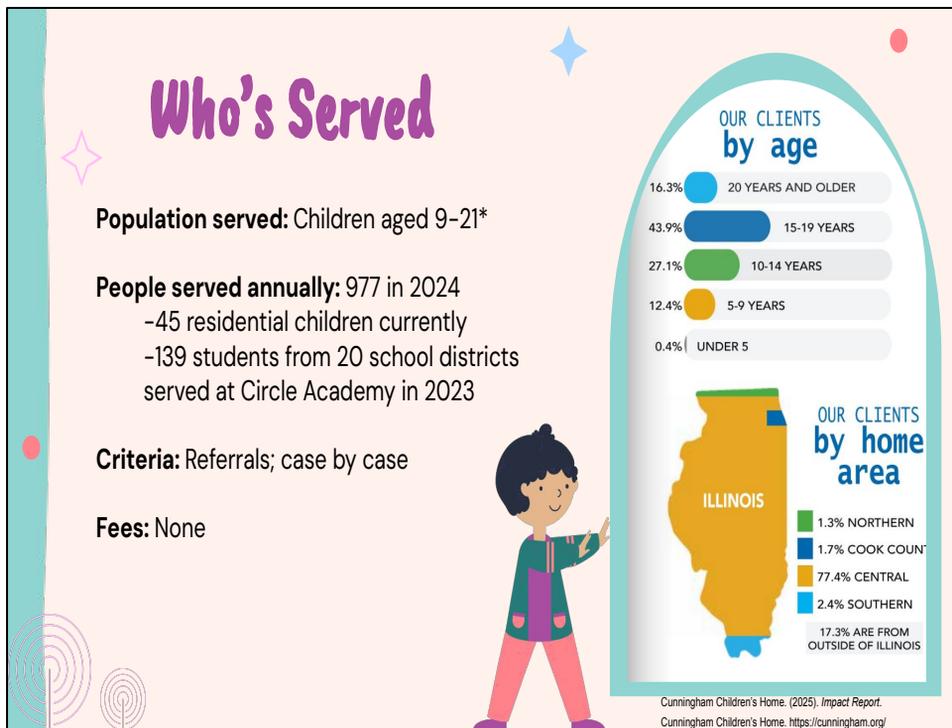

- The residential treatment program serves youth ages 9-17 at the residential treatment center as well as in group homes for girls and for boys ages 15.5-18. Youth in these services are provided with 24 hour staff support as

- they follow routines of daily living (Cunningham Children's Home, 2025d).
- The Cedars Youth Shelter is a 10-bed shelter in the residential treatment center that serves male youth ages 12-16 who are in the care of DCFS. This service typically lasts a client between 30-75 days in which they will be provided with a team of clinicians, caregivers, and case managers who assess the client's needs and provide crisis intervention, diagnostic assessments, therapy, and home finding (Cunningham Children's Home, 2025d).
- There are three types of support offered for runaway and homeless youth through Cunningham Children's Home. Emergency shelter is offered to any non-DCFS youth ages 14-21 who need safe, temporary housing. It provides the clients served with a structured program schedule including life skills instruction, education advocacy and case management services. Street outreach is another support offered to homeless or at-risk individuals aged 14-24 in Champaign county to establish stable living arrangements. The program offers assistance in securing housing, referral to necessary services, as well as case management. Finally, the intermediate transitional living program serves Champaign county individuals who are of the ages of 18-24 who are either homeless or at-risk of homelessness. This service focuses on the development of skills that produces sustainable housing, relationships, and employment (Cunningham Children's Home, 2025d).

Another really amazing service that Cunningham Children's Home offers is a family counseling program called Families Stronger Together or FST. This program offers things like individual and family therapy and psychoeducation services for the youth and caregivers to youth who are involved in or at-risk of becoming involved in the juvenile justice system (Cunningham Children's Home, 2025d).

More Services offered are:

- Independent living is a program that helps young adults ages 18-21 who are in DCFS care become self-sufficient and independent while living on their own in the community. It offers services such as therapy, independent living skills training, housing and financial support as well as employment or educational assistance (Cunningham Children's Home, 2025d).
- Transitional living is another program that is available through Cunningham Children's Home which supports clients as they move from youth to adulthood. These clients are provided with a home that is supervised, therapy services, employment and educational assistance, as well training in independent living skills such as cooking, laundry, money management, and social skills. This service is offered to clients aged 17.5-21 who are in DCFS care (Cunningham Children's Home, 2025d).

The Cunningham Children’s Home provides a variety of services primarily to children ages 9 to 21 years old. However, they also provide supports to children who may be younger than this as well as continued supports for individuals past the age of 21 if need be (C. Combes, personal communication, March 10, 2025). There is no real “cut off” age to receive their services as they understand that some people may need support longer than others and their goal is to help their clients be their most successful selves (C. Combes, personal communication, March 10, 2025). In 2024, they served a total of 977 individuals and their families which increased from 846 individuals in 2023 (Cunningham Children’s Home, 2025b). Currently, they have 45 children that live on the grounds at Cunningham and attend their Gerber school. Through their Caminos program they also support a number of migrant youth by providing them safe, stable housing while they are going through the immigration process (C. Combes, personal communication, March 10, 2025). Additionally, in 2023 they had a total of 139 students across 20 different school districts who attended their Circle Academy program (Cunningham Children’s Home, 2025b). There is no specific residency requirement, meaning that Cunningham Children’s Home will support children from all over the state of Illinois; however, they primarily serve children from the Champaign/Urbana and surrounding areas (C. Combes, personal communication, March 10, 2025). Referrals to join the Circle Academy program come from the school district the child attends and they are eligible to join the program any time during the school year (C. Combes, personal communication, March 10, 2025). There is also no set criteria for children to be a resident at Cunningham and it is handled on a case by case basis (C. Combes, personal communication, March 10, 2025). Generally, it is reserved for children who do not have a foster family and therefore Cunningham would be the best option for them. They do require that the child comes for a visit to the campus prior to becoming a resident as another way to ensure that Cunningham can properly support the child and that the child too feels that Cunningham would be the best fit for them too (C. Combes, personal communication, March 10, 2025). There are no fees for the children/families who live at Cunningham or attend their Circle Academy. Expenses are paid for through the DCFS agency, the public school systems, and local tax payers (C. Combes, personal communication, March 10, 2025).

Site Details

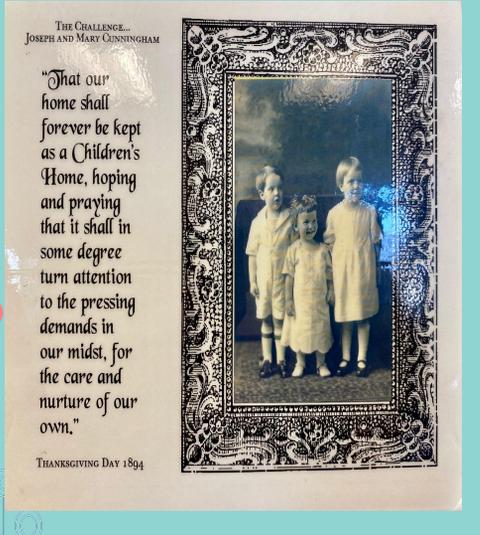

- A clean, friendly, and safe environment for children
- Easily accessible from Interstate 74
- Bus route nearby
- Improvement can be made by having more sponsors, monetary donations, wish list donations, and volunteers!

Cunningham Children's Home. (2025). Services. Cunningham Children's Home. <https://cunningham.org/>

Cunningham Children's home offers many of their services on their Urbana campus which is a clean, friendly, and safe environment for the youth. It is a beautiful campus with buildings that are both new and old but all of them are used for good purposes and everything on campus is in good condition. It is located in Urbana, Illinois on Cunningham Ave. and is easy to find as it is just a couple of blocks from interstate 74. The transportation that is offered in the local area is bus service through the Champaign-Urbana Mass Transit District which has a stop right around the corner from the facility.

Cunningham Children's Home can always be improved by individuals and businesses supporting them through sponsorship, donations, and wish lists (C. Combes, personal communication, March 10, 2025). The website has links to three different wish lists with items that individuals or businesses can donate for the children that the home provides services to such as a Christmas wish list, a general wish list, and a wish list for the Caminos program. Donations are always appreciated and can even be in the form of a monthly subscription in the amount of $40 or more (C. Combes, personal communication, March 10, 2025). Businesses and individuals can also choose to be a sponsor for Cunningham Children's Home. The facility also is always accepting of and looking for people to volunteer their time (C. Combes, personal communication, March 10, 2025).

Nursing Relevancy

THE CHALLENGE...
JOSEPH AND MARY CUNNINGHAM

"That our home shall forever be kept as a Children's Home, hoping and praying that it shall in some degree turn attention to the pressing demands in our midst, for the care and nurture of our own."

THANKSGIVING DAY 1894

- Supporting physical, mental, and emotional health of children
- Trauma informed care
- Screening
- Education
- Counseling

Cunningham Children's Home is very relevant to the nursing profession. They employ full time nursing staff to have available for the children 24/7. The nurses there work to provide holistic care to the children by not only addressing their physical health needs but their psychiatric needs as well (C. Combes, personal communication, March 10, 2025). Cunningham likes to employ nurses that have experience working in mental health since that is such a big part of caring for the children served at Cunningham. Cunningham also prides itself on providing trauma informed care (C. Combes, personal communication, March 10, 2025). This means that they understand the effects that trauma can have on children's physical, mental, and emotional well-being and how trauma can affect their actions and decision-making. Therefore, the organization works very hard to create a therapeutic environment where they identify signs of trauma and focus on providing supports to children to help them cope and build resilience. They also provide health screenings and immunizations to the children they serve and provide education about healthy living, medication management, coping skills, and more (C. Combes, personal communication, March 10, 2025). Counseling services are also provided through Cunningham's Hope Springs Counseling and Families Stronger Together programs (Cunningham Children's Home, 2025c).

Our Service

Our service impacted the organization's Camino's Kids program & The Festival of Quilts

- We created bags of epsom salt for these kids to use when needed.
- We hung, photographed, and organized quilts.

You can help this organization through donations, gifts, volunteering, and more!

Our first day with Cunningham, we were assigned to create bags filled with measured amounts of epsom salt for those in the Camino's program to use. This program helps unaccompanied minors that enter the United States seeking asylum to transition between the life they left behind and the one they are beginning in America. Many of these kids have traveled to this country on foot, leaving lasting scars and aching muscles. At Cunningham, these kids are able to take multiple epsom salt baths a day to help alleviate their pain. By preparing the bags of salt, we were able to save the staff a lot of time. We also were able to give the kids a bit more freedom and control over these baths. With the pre-portioned bags, the kids are able to get the supplies they need on their own, instead of waiting on a staff member. This can give them a feeling of control in a situation that is completely new to them. We really enjoyed doing this project for the staff and the Camino's kids. The second day there, we assisted with hanging, photographing, and organizing quilts for their upcoming Festival of Quilts in April, 2025. This event is one of the organizations biggest fundraisers as quilts have a long and deep history within the Cunningham Children's Home. Since their founding in 1895, handmade quilts have been donated to the children of Cunningham and those children select a handmade quilt that is theirs to keep and it symbolizes them being wrapped in warmth, safety, and love (Cunningham Children's Home, 2025d).

Anyone interested in helping this amazing organization can do so in a variety of ways. Cunninghams accepts donations, whether that be a one time donation or a monthly one. They also have links on their website that allows members of the community to purchase various items off of a variety of wishlists. The website has general wishlists filled with items that can be purchased and delivered to the Cunningham's Urbana campus. They also have a link to an Amazon.com wishlist where interested people can purchase items to be shipped directly to the facility. Other ways to give back to this organization is through the donation of stocks, bonds, and mutual funds. More information about this can be found on their website: <https://cunningham.org/> .

Volunteers are always needed and welcome at Cunningham, so this would be a great way to get involved. Another way to get involved is by making a quilt. As mentioned above, one of the organization's biggest fundraisers is the Festival of Quilts. This festival takes place on April 4th and April 5th of this year and many beautiful quilts will be available for purchase. All proceeds will go back to the foundation to support the wonderful work they are doing. A bake sale, gift shop, and campus tours will also be available during the Festival of Quilts (C. Combes, personal communication, March 10, 2025).

Looking to the Future

- The organization needs more funding, more staff, and more volunteers.
- The children under the care of Cunninghams need more supplies.
- The organization is always looking towards to future and improving the lives of children across the country.

When we asked Colleen about the future needs of the organization, she responded that they always need more funds. The more funds available to them, the more they can do to support children in need.

When asked about what the children needed, Colleen said they needed more supplies. This can include hygiene products, school supplies, clothes, and many other things. Cunninghams always welcomes donations of items and have indicated what items are needed most on their wish lists provided on their website.

For the future directions of goals of Cunningham, the picture on the slide shows their goals which are displayed in a conference room of the Spiritual Life Center. The goals of Cunningham include setting the industry standard for the way they train, supervise, and support their team, improving operating margins and charting a course toward long-term sustainability while providing services representing the changing needs of children, their families, and communities, developing advanced competencies in trauma-informed care and family engagement, and rebranding Cunningham to include their diverse service array and convey the positive impact they have in the community.
