

Leadership journal 4

This week in clinical (like all weeks) in the ED I saw patient prioritization. The patients with higher acuity are given priority over patients with less life-threatening issues. For example, a patient complaining of chest pain takes precedence over a bloody nose. Patient prioritization is essential in maximizing client outcomes and distributing resources appropriately.