Maybe offering a delivery service if the customer is within a certain radius of you. That makes customers really happy if their car is broke. If theyre elderly and don't want to go out because of corona ect ect ect. It will help seal the deal and you can make a little extra money if you charge them a delivery fee which most people wont mind paying if they don't have to find a ride to come get the part.