

Chapter 7 Bookwork

Mayra Vides Urrutia

Nyack College

Exercise 7.1 (a-h)

- a. simple future: He will play.
- b. present perfect: He has played.
- c. past progressive: He was playing.
- d. past perfect: He had played.
- e. stative verb: I have played
- f. simple present: He plays.
- g. accomplishment verb: I have made many projects.
- h. present perfect progressive: I have been playing soccer with my best friend.

Exercise 7.2 a & b

No, the ordering of events does not differ in the two sentences listed. Both sentences are stating that homework was completed before practicing the piano. The first sentence is using the past perfect.

Exercise 7.4

- a. “I have read the book” is using the past perfect and “I have been reading the book” is using present perfect progressive.
- b. “Stan sells vacuum cleaners” is using present simple and “Stan is selling vacuum cleaners” is present progressive.
- c. “Did you go to Yankee Stadium?” is using past tense and “Have you gone to Yankee Stadium?” is using present perfect.

Exercise 7.10 a & b

In the first sentence, the verb hear is stative and implies that it is a verb that has been happening to the person. In the second sentence, the verb listening implies that the person has chosen to exercise the action.