Hearing this spiritual through different interpretations makes me understand the song even more. One thing that seems common from all interpretations is the pronunciation of the words. The words CAN NOT get lost in spirituals because every word is meaningful. I enjoyed listening the the control they had in their voice. The bass added more intensity to this piece which I loved. As I was reading I saw that most African-Americans were against the group singing spirituals towards white audiences because it's sacred. During those times I would agree with that because the spirituals were used to being hope to the ones who were enslaved.
