Chapter 3: Homework

1. Five needs or desires identified in this chapter are . To love and be loved, to have friends, improve oneself, to share experiences with others, and to believe in romantic love.

- To love and be loved

- I've experienced these my whole life from close friends and family.

- It is one of the best feelings in the world.

- No I do not feel I was manipulated by any of these encounters.

- To have friends

- I've experienced having friends my whole life from school.

- Throughout all of my friend groups that I have made over the course of my life I've experienced good and bad days. Of course the good days outweighed the bad days however the bad days made me feel sad. The good days of course make me happy.

- Yes I believe I was manipulated by some of these encounters.

- Some were for good reasons and somewhere for bad reasons.

- Improve one self

- I experienced this my 1st year of college

- I was so excited and determined

- No I was not manipulated

- To Share Experiences with others

- I've experienced this for a majority of my life

- It's always been positive vibes and happiness

- Yes I have been manipulated by some of these encounters.

- Some where for good reasons and somewhere for bad reasons.

- To believe in romantic love

- I experienced this my junior year of highschool with my boyfriend at the current time.

- I was very nervous yet excited and happy

-No I wasn't manipulated by this encounter

2. "It"(horror)

"The Fault In Our Stars"(romance love)

"AQUAMAN"(heroism)

" Good Times"(the good old days)

3. Yes I have seen the suffering of others through television. From that I definitely felt sympathy and pain for the characters whether it was due to a major loss, bad breakup causing heartbreak, and lastly if a character is mistreated due to the color of their skin, weight, or mental illness. When I was in my high school stages of life I would identify myself with the character that was suffering when it came to heartbreak from a relationship. Mostly because I could agree with them and I felt I was giving the victims support. However, in older I do not do this anymore.
