World Civ. 3.4 Primary Source Answer

1. The implications of this view would be that creation is god. How people interact with creation directly affects how they interact with god. Creation includes everything, the earth, it's plants, the animals, and people. If you treat an animal badly, it would be considered treating god badly. If you harm another person, or yourself, it would be considered harming god himself. This would lead people who respect Purusha to also respect his creation, since it is him.

2. The nature of hierarchal order would appeal to those lower in the order, because even though they don't benefit quite as much as those higher in the order, they still benefit in ways that they cannot benefit from alone. The lower class, benefits from protection provided by the warrior class, and order provided by their officials. Not one part of the body is more important, and each part of the body is needed to make the body wholly functioning.
