

Santiago Proano

1. If I were faced with a mummy like this, I would ask for someone who specialist in the human body like a doctor. They would be able to see if everything is right with the mummy. I would also ask for someone who specialist in extracting DNA. We could use the extracted DNA, to find what his body and face could have been.

2. When I look at how the workers reconstructed the body, it seems to me that they did a great job trying to replicate the bodies of the past. It has it rugged features and its tone muscles. The plan of reconstruction was mostly ran by scientists who have studies the mummy. To me, it seem that it did the mummy justice even without the evidence.