17.3: Legal Opinions (Khayr al-Din Ramli)

1. In situations like when women are given into marriage without any consent they can reject which shows how women have control over their own lives. Men act as proxies for them when there are marriage arrangements causing the women to have no choice but to stay. The different types of divorces or annulments that are there is the ulama's judgement.
2. The relationship between women's legal rights and men's property rights is that women have few legal rights, while men own the women so they have more of a say in the women's life. In this culture men's property is more important.
