

Amy Casull
10/16/2020

I think the worse job was the coin makers not necessarily because of the work itself but because of the consequences that came out from it if you were caught stealing and taking something that didn't belong to you. They were not paid and if they did rob then they would have to get their hand cut off and hung where it can be seen as a reminder.