

Stanley Passoni

Professor: Stephen Maret

PSY 253

10/24/2020

UNIT FOUR

CH5: Question 8

I usually use context as my hermeneutics when reading scripture. I want to look at author, time, scenarios, history and even what happened right before and right after what I just read. I believe that there are many ways to use hermeneutics while reading scripture but one that I want to adopt in my scripture reading would be understanding words or phrases. Many times I catch myself skipping through unknown words or phrases but those words/phrases are key elements sometimes. Also, understanding their specific language or use of the language from that original time frame. I feel like understanding this would help me in so many ways.