Something I have had difficulty overcoming is the loss of my father. Many times I wonder why did it have to happen?? Could I have stopped this horrific incident from occurring?! It is a struggle I continue to deal with everyday. I miss so many things; the sound of keys approaching the door, the random text messages throughout the day, the goodnight phrase. The loss of a parent has been such a tragic experience for myself, nothing I would have ever imagined. I continue to grieve as well but I must also move forward with my life of course I would not forget my pops. Everyday I continue to keep his legacy alive.
