Chapter 23: Primary Source

For this week's Film response on World War 1 "The great war" I learned at first it was not the most destructed war but it did change all things. It changed our outlook, normalized cynicism and irony and It also created social and economic conditions that made World war 2 possible.

I learned that Germany mobilized its own army, they declared war on Russia. By August 4th all the major powers of Europe were at war with each other.

There were many opportunities to not wage war, but that did not happen.

Lastly, I learned War world 1 was considered to be necessary and even glorious. World war 1 was a writers war.
