After you watch this film, list three things you learned - that's it! quick and easy this week, but your reply should still be in full sentences.

1. Even though Indians fought and died in a higher percentage than Americans during the World War I, India didn't gain any real autonomy.
2. Influenza epidemic that broke out toward the end of the war killed three times as many people as the war itself.
3. The main reason the war was so deadly was the combination of new technology and outdated tactics. The two most devastating technologies were machine guns and barbed wires.
