1. Upon the readings about the Chinese literature was very interesting and informative in the sense of learning upon a new aspect. That being said, it also is very confusing in the sense of if you don't understand the origin and writings you may misinterpretation the literature and lack the understand the Chinese literature is trying to come across. In other words, despite the lack of understanding, the concept and idea of learning upon a different culture and what they represent is very intellectual. I found the writings in the literature to have a strong sense of harmony, peace and enlightenment in which the uncover the learnings of how to treat people with love and respect through these aspects.
