

Jarilex Cuellar

The blood of the kings

I would say that the “cultural screen” of the Maya society as illustrated in this film mainly showing how they would live their life through and from images also giving their life history they had no more then that to provide what made them the Maya’s