

Why organ donation should be encouraged

Speaking of organ donation, most of people unwilling to talk about it . some of them even scared of it, lots of people might say “it’s none of my business,that’s stupid to donate my own organs .”As a matter of fact, organ donation can not only help others but also make one’s life meaningful.

Organ donation is an opportunity to help others. According to the American Transplant Foundation, every 12 minutes ,another persons name joints the 123,000 others on the national organ transplant waiting list. People who are on an organ waiting list ,typically have end-stage organ disease that significantly impacts their quality of life, and may be near the end of their life .Receiving an organ can become a life -changing event for these people. It can also help a family work through the grieving process, and deal with their loss by knowing their loved. Most importantly, people with some congenital disease, especially children, they complain about the unfair fate. so if you want to offer help to them, their life would go back to normal. Form now on ,give a hand to them, everyone will be grateful.

Additionally ,organ donation make life worth living. Montesquieu once said: can place their lives in the memory of others, life seems to lengthen a little”. It’s said that a single organ donor can save up to eight lives by donating tissues and eyes, the same donor can improve up to 50 lives. Becoming a donor is a hugely positive choice, and allows your legacy to live on through. It will make a really big difference and let you learn more about life. Take this into consideration, organ donation make your life colorful.

Form what has been discussed above, we may reasonably arrive at the conclusion that organ donation is necessary to the whole society. Everyone should pay close attention to this. This action is not only prolongs the life of the patient but also sublimates your own life.
