

Regina Jackson

Professor Stanley John

CS501

11/10/2020

Cultural construction of Identity

Anthropologist often speaks about the Egalitarian Societies as if everyone is the same or equal or the same, but the truth of the Matter is that everyone is different in every societies, just like everyone has different finger print and everyone has his or her own DNA for the most part. However, this is what makes us unique. Just Image how boring life would be if everyone had the same chemical make up or were the same.

On the other hand, if a group of people went to school to pursue a career in becoming a medical doctor, and a group chose to simply sit on their “Gluteus maximus and did absolutely nothing to pursue a career to enhance their financial status, than there is no way everyone could be equal. The word of God tells us in the Book of 2nd book of Timothy “Study to show thy self-approve a workman need not to be ashamed rightly divide the word of truth.

The caste system is a class structure that is determined by Birth, However in some societies if your parents are poor more than more than likely their off springs will be as well, and if the parents are rich so will the divided into rank broken up into subdivisions, and each caste is based on their specific occupations.

The caste system in India is called Jeta and this system is a structure that is divided by rank, members of “higher social caste has a higher rank on the other hand individuals with a lower social caste has a lower social rank in society.as we can see status is of great importance .Through Birth, ever, every child inherits his or her ancestor caste, through Hindu varna system Nevertheless, the Varnas the varnas which are associated with early Hinduism, are the first recorded record of India's caste system. In India certain cast such as such as Brahma- the four headed, four headed deity worshipped as the creator of the universe. This is considered dirty work whereas other people stay clear of the individual. However, the India caste system to continue to be practice in India with devastating social d classic effects. However, there are many cast systems India, but there are smaller caste system within a society.

The lowest caste in India is the Dalit which means "broken or scattered. "Hindi is a name for people belong to the lowest caste in India Characterized as "untouchable, this expression means that no one dare lay a finger on these low caste people, because they was considered unclean because of the inferior work that they do. Each person in a society has his or her perception of reality.

During the year of 1200-400 BC Sanskritic was one of the Language spoken and although it's not as prevalent in today's society but is still being used. It is one of the antiquated languages still used in India where Hindu scriptures are and classical poems are still written to this day, From this language many northern Indian languages are made up from it.

-

-

-

