

Vocabulary for the Pedestrian by Ray Bradbury

1. concrete -a strong, hard building material made with gravel and cement
2. intersection- a place where one street crosses another
3. glimmer- a flash of light
4. manifest – make an appearance
5. intermittent – starting and starting at irregular intervals
6. infrequent – not occurring regularly
7. revue – a variety show
8. hesitate- interrupt temporarily an activity before continuing
9. stumble – miss a step and fall or nearly fall
10. vanish – disappear
11. ceaseless – continuing indefinitely
12. radiance – being very bright
13. destination – the place that is the end of a journey or a race
14. illumination – providing light
15. halt – stop moving
16. ebb- fall away
17. wander – move about without any plans
18. profession – a job requiring a special education
19. specimen – an example that is thought to be typical
20. fancy – a whimsical imagination
21. tomb - a place for burying a corpse
22. phonograph- a machine that plays records
23. accusation – a claim that someone is guilty of an offence
24. fiery – very strong
25. purpose – an anticipated outcome
26. peer- look at something very hard
27. rivet – fasten with a metal fastener
28. antiseptic – a substance that destroys germs
29. alibi – proof that someone accused of a crime could not have done it
30. faint – lacking clarity, brightness or loudness
31. regressive – opposing progress
32. thud – a heavy, dull sound
33. dim – lacking in light
34. particular – different from others
35. motion -act of changing location form one place to another