

the law that they had back then was ridiculous because women weren't allowed to go anywhere without their husband or a male figure and It discriminate against women that we didn't matter we didn't have the power we couldn't speak we had to always be silent. throughout time females were put in a position that they're less than men but whatever a man is able to do we women could do the same thing. even though now in the 21st-century things have changed for women but some countries still have the same law, and I think that every woman should have the rights and freedom to express herself or do things and go wherever they please.
