Linking It Together Ch. 7

According to the video, "How does bail work" talks about the bail. A bail hearing happens and a bail amount is set. If one cannot afford bail, they must stay in jail until their court date. This is also said in the book. The video talks about a bail agent, but in the book it talks about a bondsman. This helps a person with their bail money amount and handles it with the court. This bailing someone out and this can take a short time or a while.

According to the video, "What is Court Diversion?" it talks about the program that helps adults and children take responsibility for their unlawful actions, while keeping them out of the court and possibly stopping them from getting a criminal record. This followed the path of the restorative process approach. This process gives the chance to learn the harm they did, repair the harm, and learn from it. There is a court direction contract and the criteria must be met.

According to the video, "Day Reporting Centers" it talks about how the day reporting centers are an alternative to prison. It is cheaper than locking people up, and the people are less likely to commit more serious crimes than people in regular prisons. The goals are restitution, rehabilitation and restoration. This gives people the "last" chance to change their behavior and actions. This process interviews each person individually in order to see what path they will be taking in this program.
