Argumentative paper

We all have opinions about what we think is the best . whether in sports , genres of books , types of video games , shoes , clothes , and many more things . I personally believe that this movie chronicle is an excellent film , and definitely the best movie i have watched in my life because of its great plot and connections to some situations we may face in life . I will get deeper into the characters and plot of this movie but having watched it twice in my life the movie is very emotionally moving as well as relatable in some ways . Starting off right away the three characters are Andrew , Matt , and Steve . All in high school Steve is running for president in his class and pretty popular around school , Andrew being an outcast so to speak and in his own world and picked on by some , And Matt being chill but your usual high school student just vibing per say in his own space . The friends discover a rock deep underground after going out searching while at a party . Realizing later on that now they have super powers , that are extremely powerful .The ability to fly and immense strength as well as the ability to control objects if they really focus their mind on it .What i feel so strongly that this is such a great underrated film because how even though the events are fictional through the friends getting powers things change . Their bond as a whole is tested further on with each of them living different lives and particularly Andrews the hardest of the bunch .Andrews mother being sickly and his father being abusive takes a toll on him and he bottles it up for a long time .Andrew documenting all the friends adventures horse playing with their new powers despite his hard home life . Eventually one day he snaps , but backtracks just a little before that happens . One day the friends decide to check up Andrew and he is in the clouds causing a big ruckus Steve checks up on him and Andrew strikes him from being out of control and the screen cuts to black

.After this event Steve sadly passes away and has a big impact on the group . Matt is pretty upset because of this and Andrew starts losing control further , and further . Connecting though even though the powers and things are fake i love how it shows over the course when great adversity hits at his highest as the friends inner characters are revealed . The film did a excellent job better than most with really pulling you in and feeling like you were with the characters with 1st person pov shots at times and Andrews documentation of the group's endeavors .Including all that happened the good the bad the ugly .Most action movies like this i have watched really didn't impact me because being around 16 watching this i felt like i could relate to the characters .Not experiencing hardships as extreme but events that tested whether we would fall out all together or despite the unfortunate circumstance to have eachothers back and work things out .Also how throughout there was suspenseful moments from the unfortunate death of steve , to later on Andrews plunge into unfortunate consumption of evil where he lost control .I really enjoyed the creative spin additionally to the moments of where even if you thought something else would happen in mind a total curveball was thrown .Lastly i feel like many teens and kids also can can also relate and even older adults will enjoy . Its the perfect mix of action , drama , suspense and eventful scenes especially the last scene of the movie . Finally I loved how there is a hidden meaning per say . Due to all the adversity the friends faced it showed the inner colors of particularly Andrew who significantly cracked . Dealing with his home life and school life of being an outcast letting his dark ways consume him .In the face of adversity true colors was definitely a prevalent theme and was shown throughout . Unfortunately at the end , Steve and Andrew face off in one of those classic cinematic fight scenes . A hard one to watch indeed friend vs friend in which Andrew is destroying things in the city and Steve has to go stop him . Putting his friend to death with a spear ends the madness and was a insane way for things to go . From geeked over their powers to only 1 of the 3 friends alive is a heart wrenching way for things to take a turn .From the real life connections to, Great plot , to Andrews documentation of the trios events i stand on how great this film was and a argument for its greatness .I personally feel it is one of the greatest films all time . In summary this is how i feel about the movie chronicle .
