Topic Proposal

(Pneumatology) Are miraculous gifts (tongues, prophecy, word wisdom/knowledge, interpretation, gifts of healing) for today? Why or why not?

I believe that Miraculous gifts such as tongues, prophecies , word of wisdom/knowledge , interpretation , gifts of healing is still for today it isn't something that is grown out of over time for example believing in God just because the years go by just because time flies does not mean we stop believing and his existence is gone and meaningless that is exactly how my view of Miraculous gifts is the same from decades ago as it is for today. As my denomination is Pentecostal I have viewed with my own eyes miracles occur and I have seen wonderful things happen and God reveal himself into not only my only life but others. I do personally believe that not everyone has these gifts and its not because they arent filled with the Holy Spirit but because they are gifts God gives to those he chooses that does not mean that you arent there with God. What makes this topic so contriversals to this day is that other denominations such as Baptists I came to study and learn that as they believe in the trinity , they do not however believe in miraculous gifts they do not believe that God will picks and give someone tongues when others do not understand the language and they do not believe in prophecies . But not only that now a days everyone wants to identify as a prophet or as a healer or as a pastor there are even occasions where people take lessons to speak tongue which is blasphemy and they give themselves these titles and act like fools which is why only those truly filled with the Holy Spirit and guided by God have that desence of knowing when its someone in the spirit talking or just a fool trying to act all high and mighty.
