

It is true that Mark is the shortest and earliest Gospel. Matthew 9:2-8, Jesus was accused by the expert of being disruptive and evil, Jesus was a Protestor. Luke 7, Jesus empathized and advocated for the oppressed, hurt, abused, and victimized, Jesus was a protestor.

The main point of Jesus actions is the same and that is to show the corruption going on. There is a little bit difference: In Matthew's description, Jesus ministers to blind, lame and sick who were there. In Mark, Jesus the Messiah coming as a servant. and Luke says he begins to preach to the people.

In both the old testament and the new testament, the quote that appears in each of these accounts is: My house shall be called a house of prayer for all nations? Love the lord your God with all your heart and with all your soul and with all your mind.

If I write a story about the situation to readers as a newspaper reporter, I think I will express only those who do selling because all three kinds of people are related to selling. This is because all three kinds of people related to selling. Mark 11:15-19: he entered the temple and began to drive out those who sold and those who bought in the temple, and he overturned the tables of the money changers and the seats of those who sold pigeons.
