

1. I believe Paula did nothing wrong. In the Constitution of the United States of America she is protected by the First Amendment. She is protected by the constitution and she did not violate any laws. Yes, it would be considered acceptable under the first amendment because she allowed to have her voice to be heard. She is not violating any laws because the first amendment protects her and in the eyes, she is not doing anything wrong. This is freedom of expression, and commercial speech as well because she is advertising. In this case the first amendment still protects her from her freedom of speech.
2. In Jackson's defense, he did nothing wrong. He took all of the right protocols, and had Cesar's work to be inspected by property manager. But I believe this time he should not have allowed Cesar to bring someone else to work with him because who knows if the other guy did something to damage the escalator. In this case Jackson is liable since two customers got hurt inside of this property. Niko's testimony would be circumstantial because he recorded the whole thing. Niko in this case has evidence, and it could be in a form of testimony, documents, and other relevant information. Which he does have. Niko waited 4 years to publish his video, and he also edited footage in all social media pages. Who knows what he posted and in this case Domingo and Dilia could sue him as well because he did something t
3. Yes, Murphy and Alicia do have a valid contract. In chapter 4 we learned about different types of contracts and different ways of agreements. What Alicia used was an express contract. This is in words, written or oral. She created an oral contract since he told Murphy she will pay him $200 per day for every single day that he took care of her son. Yes, the court will enforce the agreement Sean and Murphy made. Murphy had Sean sign an agreement for him to live in Sean's property for 2 years. In this case they were four essential elements of a contract which are competent parties, mutual agreements, consideration, and legality. In this case because of this the court will obey because there was a contract formed between both parties. Alicia won't be able to do anything.
