

Bunnie Smith
PMN 201

My name is Bunnie Smith, I currently live in West Babylon, NY located on Long Island. I've lived here for most of my life after moving from August, Ga with my family. I am a mother of seven children, two by birth and five from adoption. I have five grandchildren among all my children.

I am currently in my second year of majoring in Psychology with Christian Studies. I have a strong background in business from my earlier years out of high school and attending college which I never completed. I decided to return to school after the transition of my oldest son who had Downs, at the age of 39 was diagnosed with testicular cancer and due to the chemo caused his organs to shut down. Five months almost to the day my dad transitioned. It was a difficult time for me in 2020 which was my original enrollment to Nyack, and I had to stop the process because of all that was going on.

Jesus to me is my everything. He is my source and the core of my soul. Without him I don't know where I would be right now. He is the head of my life, the lifter of my head, I thank God for Jesus.

My dream is to help people find their way to Christ. I feel like there has been a falling away from the Lord and through counseling he will use me to draw others back to him.

There are a few people I truly admire, namely my son and my dad. They were some of the most loving people I ever knew. Never passed judgement on anyone always showing love by giving whatever they had. They both had good hearts and I hope I can find myself like them that was genuine and didn't look for nothing in return.
