1. When you take the best of your human spirit and the Holy Spirit, what does that look like?
 - a. Someone who is confident but relaxed and at peace because she knows who she is. She can fulfill her assignment from God with no hesitation but fully dependent on the Spirit and her giftings and skills. Someone who exercises authority with grace, kindness and integrity.
2. What is the best of you that is to come? What's the best of what you've been given when it plays out?
 - a. My presence would bring curiosity to others that will give opportunities for me to have deep intentional conversations with about their soul. My stories would inspire people to reflect upon their own souls and lives, while also allowing people to feel connected, heard, understood, and seen. I would develop more storytellers around me to make similar impact in their circles of influence.
 - b. I would be known as the one who is a lover of people and their hearts, and not love based on what they can do. I invest in people's lives by speaking truth and honestly to those I meet. Naturally, those people who are curious would want to stay and converse with me further. With building credibility, I think more and more people would want to speak with me, aka increase my circle of influence. (it's already happening but very slowly...)
3. What are 2 things you'll implement in the next 6 months and how?
 - a. I will teach and train my youth team to be active listeners who make insights, not just observations. I will teach them how to ask good questions and how to discern God's presence and voice so they may experience how much God loves them. I will firstly ask them the hard questions to point them to their soul and inspire them to desire for life change for themselves.
 - b. I will be honest and assertive with people in my community, specifically women's group to help the group become better friends with one another, for one another, and for the sake of Christ's name to not be used in vain.
