Log Week: #1

Date:01/22/23

How am I fulfilling my ministry responsibilities? This week was an amazing first week. I meet so many welcoming people. My mentors name is Father Amobi and he is well educated and funny. He allowed me to go out on the floor alone, the second day on my internship. He taught me the ins and outs in the Epic program and showed me around the facility.

Identity: Knowing my identity as a Chaplain in Christ

Calling: Learning Spanish to better assist my patients and be more of a support of my Spanish speaking co-workers

Passions: Educating my patients

Spiritual Gifts: Smile, making people see my positive spirit and showing empathy

Spiritual Maturity: Not rushing through my tasks

Reflection on goals, meetings: The overall experience was amazing. I quickly learned how to log patients in Epic, the internal logging system for the institution. This week was my first week and it had a very difficult occurrence. I ministered and prayed over a seventeen-year old, male who had cardiac arrest and eventually passed away. My best patient was a young male who was open to being educated on religion. This week I learned how to pace myself and not go up the stairs but coming down is okay to save my energy. It is a large facility. My faith really did not waiver this week, with the loss I questioned, but my past experiences as a health provider in palliative care had taught me that death is a natural part of life and we will all go one day.
