1. What is the significance of learning Spanish for Barrientos? Why is this so important to her?

So she can understand what is going on and not feel like she is being left out and also be able to communicate back if spoken to in that language.

2. Amy Tan defines her self as a writer in the beginning stages of her essay, Mother Tongue. How does she go on to define what she means by this? In addition, Tan writes about the different “Englishes” that she speaks. What categories does Tan divide English into?

Tan means that she loves to know, learn, and write about other languages than what she speaks willing to learn anything. Tan divides English into simple English, broken English, watered down, and her mother’s internal language.

*Extra Credit: Why does Felsenfeld use the phrase “rebel music”?

Because it is something that he takes pride in and listens too all the time.
