

Article Review

Regina Epps: eppsr@allianceu.edu

Program: Masters of Divinity

Alliance Theological Seminary

1/30/23

Article Review

What is one concept that stood out to you in this article?

The concept that stood out to me in “Missions In The Old Testament” was the interpretation of missions without using the actual word. This article compares a very noticeable mission calling in the New Testament versus the Old Testament. In the article the author clearly states Jesus’ saying, “Therefore go and make disciples of all nation.” (Matthew 28:19, NIV) The author clearly states the focus on missions was not very clear, but was able to realize how the Lord did use missions in the Old Testament. I never thought about prophets having a missionary role, but they did travel wherever God would send them and reveal God’s truth.

What implications does this concept have for Missions?

The concept for missions is to spread word of God because He is for everyone, not just for Israel. God loves all people in every nation and missions should show love to all not matter of the background or an other differences. To embrace everyone is what God would want and his glory will shine through the kindness of people doing missionary work.

What needs to change in your life as a result?

As for me I am going to try and be more vocal about spreading the gospel of Jesus Christ. I’ve never seen myself as a missionary before, but I believe we are all missionaries for the Lord. In order for people to get to know the Lord I have to be his witness/missionary and speak about his goodness.

Hale, Ned. “Missions in the Old Testament.”