

Research and Writing Week 2

Coffee is an example, and it comes from other outside countries into America, some examples of these are Continents like South America and Europe. It moves from countries in these continents into America and this is how we have coffee still today. These continents produce the beans for us in coffee and we continue to make trades with those for all different kinds of goods and products.

Works Cited

Morillo, S. (2014). Chapter 15. In Frameworks of World history (pp. 461–482). essay, Oxford University Press.