Kangxi, foreign correspondence

1, What practical problems does the Kangxi Emperor face , and what measures does he take to meet them? of information does he seem to have for both the problems and the possibilities for their solution

- The kangxi emperor established a well deserved reputation as one of China's greatest rulers. The second manchu emperor to rule over all of china, his was the longest reign in chinese history though his son Qianlong's period of effective rule was actually longer under his direction , qing china achieved high level of economic prosperity and culture productivity and expanded to its greatest territorial extent.

The kangxi emperor faced many problems when the russian merchants came to peking for trade, they should number no more than two hundred and should come only once every three years. They should furnish their own horses and camels . their commodities are not taxed, but they are not allowed to trade in contraband goods. The trade network also expanded its relations with the European merchants and their cultures.

2. What screen image does the Kangxi Emperor wish to project of China to foreigners? How, in turn, are foreigners? What role does image projection play in diplomacy and in relation to practical policy measures

- The emperor decreed to the grand secretaries and minister of the nine boards, everything on this earth begins small but grows large. We should not neglect the smell of things, although we must naturally pay more attention to the large ones.

The majority Han people dislike manchu because they are invader of Han empire, but manchu adopt most of the Han people culture and custom , manchu emperors attempt to win the trust of Han chinese people that qing dynasty is the successor of the chinese history, unlike the mongolian yuan dynasty that slave the han people and try to destroy their culture.
