

My Favorite Artist----Van Gogh

It 's hard for my favorite artists to narrow it down to a list of artists,because over the years, I've been influences by many artists,and I've fallen in love with some artists from time to time,but some people have always kept close contact with me.Brett Whiteley Brett is my gateway to art,and he shows me that painting can be more than just simple what's in front of us,his addiction to drugs destroyed most of his art and life before he died ,but he's still at the top of my list.Vincent Van Gogh Vinnie will always be at the the part of my list of favorite painters.

His passion for art and his paintings gave me endless feelings.Picasso,a little Spaniard ,lived a very full life,but he still found a lot when I worked when I'm not satisfied ,I think about how many pieces Pablo creates every year.I've always loved painting,so Schiller has to be the list.

His painting are very ordinary ,but his paintings died for Warhol.To be honest,I don't really like Andy Warhol's work,but he made artists feel less guilty about taking money from art collectors .He helped me understand that you can make a living by Albert Giacometti Alberto's paintings.

He sacrificed color to Kiefer.I've never seen an artist's entire exhibition.but I've seen very few of them after 20 years painting ,I will still be impressed by great artists and I will be impressed by his works.
